

Town Manager Plans May Be Standardized By State Legislature

A move by the Massachusetts Civic League to standardize the form of town manager government will be sent before the Massachusetts legislature next year, and may have an effect on Arlington's attempt to install a new type of government here.

Already 10 of Massachusetts' 39 cities are operating or planning to operate on a city manager form of government under a standard plan. There are several forms of city manager government, numbered from A to E, which are now in effect.

While many towns are discussing or preparing to enact town management forms of government, there is no set standard for this type of operation, and the Civic League feels one is called for.

There has been no standard form for town manager government. Opponents of this type of administration have argued that such a measure would act as a straitjacket for towns whose needs, industry and population are widely divergent.

The Civic League's measure provides flexibility between the extremes of "weak" or "strong" forms of town manager government by making the drafting and decision on the charter strictly local. It eliminates the necessity of going to the Legislature for approval. It aims to give the decision to townspeople voters rather than to a sometimes non-representative body of limited town meeting members.

The proposed standard form of town manager bill would permit 10 per cent of the citizens of a community to petition to have the plan placed on the ballot. If the town meeting voted to accept the standard act, a committee of nine would be appointed to study town by-laws and draw up the framework, under the standard act, to be presented at a special town meeting.

Two Families Driven From Homes By Fire

Two families were driven to the street Thursday evening when a two alarm fire of unknown origin swept the two and one half story home at 35-38 Windsor st., Arlington.

The fire apparently started under the rear porch and roared up the back of the house into the attic before it was discovered.

Walter J. Smith, Arlington police officer, and his family occupants of the second floor with Armen Dohanian and family rushed from the inferno as neighbors called fire headquarters.

Deputy Chief Lorne McEwen and the headquarters apparatus with an engine company from Somerville responded to the scene.

Firemen said they could see the flames as they neared Tufts street on their way to the fire.

The Deputy Fire Chief wasted no time in sounding a second alarm after arriving at the fire.

The second alarm brought apparatus from Medford and Cambridge to the blaze as well as equipment from Highland station. Men from Somerville, Belmont, Lexington and Medford covered in at the empty Arlington fire houses.

The fire was claimed to be the worst in eight years with residents of Somerville and Cambridge rushing to the scene having been attracted by the red glow in the sky.

An East Arlington resident said he thought half of the town was on fire.

The fire burned both back porches, parts of the second floor and the entire attic and roof. Water damage was felt throughout the house. Damage was estimated at nearly $10,000.

The first alarm was sounded at 7:29 pm and the all out at 11:00pm.

However, firemen were called to the scene again about 2:00 am. Friday morning when the fire watch left at the scene discovered smoke coming up into the attic around the chimney and soil pipe.

Firemen quickly found a spot that was still burning and extinguished it.

Proclamation

The Selectmen today called on the people of Arlington to take part in the nationwide Christmas safety campaign, now being waged by the National Safety Council and 161 cooperating national organizations. The goal of the campaign is to reduce the tragic toll of accidents that brings suffering and sorrow to so many homes at the Yuletide season.

The Christmas holidays bring extra hazards. Traffic accidents reach their peak during this period because of winter weather, earlier darkness and holiday festivity. Home accidents also increase. But if we all assume personal responsibility for a safe celebration for ourselves and others, whether we're walking or driving in traffic, and when we're at home, we all can have a safe and happy holiday.

Let's all resolve that no accident not even a minor one, shall mar the happiness of anyone in Arlington this Christmas.

Center Plan Conference Next Tuesday

The proposed rerouting plan for the alleviation of traffic in Arlington Center will be discussed next Tuesday morning at 10 by the Middlesex County Commissioners and the Joint Board of Selectmen and Board of Public Works, the PRESS learned yesterday.

This is a major step in the investigation of the "Center Plan" which was the subject of such hot debate in the Annual Town Meeting last March.

It will be remembered that the Town Meeting Members finally voted to authorize the joint board to investigate and consult with both County and State authorities.

Much of the conflict arose from the possible land damages and the loss of property in making way for new roads, not to mention the cost to the Town of building such roads. An answer to this was made that the State and County would be prepared to ease the financial burden.

Further dispute centered on the viewpoints of Arlington businessmen. Some took the view that Arlington citizens, who had a healthy purchasing power, would be en-

Could you help find a new home for a family of five "displaced persons"? They need five or six rooms, unfurnished, right away.

No, they're not from overseas and they speak your language. You see, police officer Walter J. Smith Jr., his wife and three children were made homeless last week when a terrible fire destroyed their home.

Officer Smith says the family lost much of their furniture and most of their clothes. "Smitty" and the three youngsters have been sleeping on mattresses on the floor of the home of relatives, and Mrs. Smith is staying with her family.

The children have been offered rooms by friends, but Officer Smith just doesn't want to separate his youngsters.

Somewhere in Arlington there's just the spot that this family needs to start a new home, and a call to either the Arlington PRESS or to the Arlington Police Station will make five people very happy.

Dog Bites Man Also Rescuer

Two people were bitten by the same dog Wednesday night near the corner of Park and Massachusetts Avenues.

Joseph Young, 22, of 75 Paul Revere rd., was bitten on the right thigh by a dog owned by Anthony Russo, 12 Park place, Arlington.

Paul Ouellette 17, 97 Westmoreland ave was also bitten as he came to the rescue of young. The dog bit his left leg and ripped his pants.

The dog was ordered restrained until he could be examined by the veterinarian.

TOWN MANAGER—

The bill would not exceed the terms of any "strength" charter (Saugus, for example) now existing, while providing a chance for meeting the individual requirements of the local community. The by-passing of the special Legislative enabling act under present town manager adoption methods would cut as much as a year and a quarter from the year and nine months to three years and nine months now necessary.

"It gives the game back to the citizens, and cuts down unnecessary restrictions in the charters," a municipal expert says of the proposed standard town manager form.

On a national scale, more than 100 communities now have a manager form of government, with 25 per cent. of the cities over 25,000 population under manager direction. This matches the Massachusetts percentage.

Communities in the state to accept a town manager include Danvers, Ipswich, Mansfield, Middleboro, Saugus, Stoughton, Stoneham, Norwood and Wilmington. Wapole has a half-way

More than 30 other towns have appointed official town manager study committees since 1946. Some committees have reported unfavorably. A few towns have turned down proposed manager legislation. Other groups are due to give their findings to the 1951 town meetings. The studies of many have been continued.

Arlington, for example, last March rejected a half-way executive selectman scheme which called for merging the existing boards of selectman and public works, and the establishment of a five instead of three man selectmen group uncouraged by the relief of traffic problems to buy from Arlington Center stores and stimulate new "big business" in Arlington. Other argued that the competition from such new enterprise would be "too much" for the average Arlington businessman.

Representative Henry E. Keenan also proposed a system of signs that would link together the roads surrounding the Arlington Center area into a gigantic rotary system thus making it easier for motorists going beyond the shopping district but not into it.

The investigations and conferences such as next Tuesday's meeting, will be submitted for the consideration of the Town Meeting Members next March.

der the executive administrator. It set up instead a nine-man board instructed to bring back a town manager plan for March meeting action in 1951.

Concord has just turned in a favorable committee report. Holden has legislation already prepared. Wellesley adopted a town engineer compromise (not yet in effect) in March, with instructions to a five man board to continue town manager study and bring a report to the 1951 meeting. Committee sentiment in Bourne and Winchester is optimistic. Reading turned down the manager form.

"Objectors to the town manager program should understand that the manager's job is administrative, not making policies," says John W. Agnew of Boston, recently elected regional vice-president of the National Municipal League. "His job is to get things done efficiently, with the greatest return for the tax dollar, without loss of jobs or pay to municipal workers."

units.

"Unlike the defense set-up used in the last emergency," said McFadden, "the wardens and police will be combined under one head, Archie Bullock. This will prevent any of the confusion which developed during World War II!"

The Board of Selectmen have authorized the civil defense board to contact all of the towns people by direct mail, issuing them instructions in event of disaster as well have as applications cards for the many volunteer positions which will have to be filled.

These pamphlets will be issued sometime after the first of January, or as soon as they are received from State headquarters.

The volunteers will fill out a questionnaire and this will be processed so that the applicant may be placed in a category to which he is best suited. However, the volunteer will have the final say as to which unit he would care to serve under.

Supplies and equipment present the major problem to the local board. There is no money to purchase equipment, and even if there was, Mr. McFadden said he would wait until the State Board has authorized the type of supplies needed.

The action taken by the local board on this subject is pending on that taken by the Federal and State governments. "We will make any necessary purchases that come up," said the director. By necessary purchases was meant any equipment would be used in normal times for better efficiency.

Tests are another problem confronting the board. No test can be made of the organization in action until it is fully manned. Then the only tests that can then be made will be state-wide and not local.

What type of air-raid warning system to be used, rates as a number one question. The State boards are waiting for the Federal agencies to produce a standard type of signal system.

If they do not, then the State will make one of its own which will be standard throughout all of the State regional districts.

The Town will be divided into eight districts, each with a grammar school as a center. The PTA unit in each school will be used as a nucleus of volunteers.

A mutual aid system among the towns in Section Five, Arlington, Cambridge, Bedford, Belmont, Lexington and Lincoln, has been established. Cambridge is the regional center with City Manager John Atkinson in command.

Arlington has been designated as a part of the red-danger area in case of air attacks, with a warning that it is imperative that all citizens come to the aid of their community as soon as volunteer notices are made available.

Blood For Korea Shipped Daily By Boston Red Cross

Daily shipments of blood for Korean casualties calls for the wholehearted cooperation of residents in this community, Gen. Daniel Needham, chairman of the Metropolitan Boston Red Cross Blood Program, declared today.

"The Department of Defense has named the Red Cross as the official procurement agency for blood for the Armed Forces," Needham said. "From Boston more than 200 pints of blood each day must be sent to help our wounded soldiers and marines."

Stating that people are anxious to help in the war crisis in some way, Needham pointed out that donating blood for the wounded is a merciful way as well as satisfying.

He urged all healthy people to donate when the Bloodmobile comes at the Red Cross Blood Center, 314 Dartmouth St., near Copley Square, Boston.

Information on bloodmobile visits and Blood Center donation hours can be obtained by calling the local Red Cross or Copley -6330.

Needham explained that the more than 200 pints of blood daily being shipped from Boston is in addition to the daily requirements for blood needed by returned Korean casualties at six hospitals in the State. It's also above the daily needs for veterans and civilian hospitals.

"Massachusetts residents must donate at least 600 pints of blood a day to help meet these unprecedented needs," said Needham.

"It would be criminal to let down our fighting men by shirking the realize that it is our own personal way to help where help is strongly needed."

Donating blood is easy and effortless and the process will take less than an hour of a donor's time. "This one hour may mean life for the person who has your blood transfused into his veins," Gen. Needham said.

Picture Crashes At High School Reveals Russo-China War '91

The huge picture, 'Colosseum in Rome,' which has hung for all to see outside of the headmasters' office at the high school came crashing to the floor Monday afternoon.

Now this is not much of a news story, but what follows is. The picture frame, made of glass, was smashed into a million peices and the picture itself flew from its frame. When the picture was picked from the floor, underneath it, lay three newspapers.

All were issued in 1891. The Journal, The Boston Transcript, and The Boston Traveller.

Being a newspaperman I read through these old papers. The following is a reprint from the October 24, 1891 issue of the Boston Traveller.

"The Russian authorities will reckon without their host if they count upon establishing and maintaining suzerain right over the territory, known as the Pamir table land in Asia. (Pamir-land is now known as the highlands of central Asia, 11,000 to 25,000 feet high. It is near India and Afghanistan.) This table-land is the spot at which the Russian, British and Chinese domains meet. Great Britain will never consent to Russian occupancy of this territory, and if Russia persists in her aggressions a conflict in the immediate future is inevitable. It will not be a question of Russian diplomacy, nor will England buy off Russia by removing the obstacles in the way of occupation of Constantinople by the latter. She may continue in her policy of aggressiveness, but England is bound to draw the line at Pamir."

One of the outstanding exhibitors in the recent Mass. Cage Bird Association show held at Mechanics Building in Boston was Mrs. Edwin Jones of 27 Highland Ave., proprietor of the Highland Aviary, well known local bird fancier and breeder.

Mrs. Jones captured honors in the Roller Canary division for the Best Red Factor in Team in the Show; special award for the best water Glucke; and special award for the Best Hollow Roll in the show.

In the American Singer Section, Mrs. Jones won both first and second prize for the birds judged wholly for song. The local Aviary also was credited with several awards in the color Bred Class.

Mrs. Jones, who took up raising and breeding birds as a hobby almost 10 years ago, has more than 400 birds at the Highland Aviary, and has become one of the outstanding breeders in the state.

Attend Program On Jury Service

"School for Jurors" planned by Mrs. Warren Gilford and Mrs. Thomas H. Mahoney of the League of Women Voters, was held on Thursday, November 30th at the Mason Memorial Building in Boston.

The school was designed to give league members a chance to learn how the jury service works. In the morning there was a mock trial with Judge Jennie Baran presiding, and Attorneys Thomas H. Mahoney and Samuel Sears arguing the case. A jury was chosen according to trial procedure.

In the afternoon, there was an address by Judge Charles E. Wyanski on "The Significance of the Jury in Our Judicial System," and also an address by Judge Sweeney. Following these talks, and also an excursion tour of the Federal District Court and Suffolk Superior Court.

Arlington League members who attended were Mrs. Amado Alonso, Mrs. John Curtis, Mrs. Gordon Thompson, Mrs. Robert Strong and Mrs. P. F. Fallonte.

O'Brien, Salisbury With Terrasi Spark All-Star Victory At Salem Sun.

Joe Terrasi of Waltham high, assisted by Don O'Brien and Paul Salisbury of Arlington sparked the Suburban All-Stars to a 19-12 decision over the North Shore All-Stars in a spectacular and thrilling duel at Bertram Field, Salem Sunday afternoon.

An overflow crowd of 9500 watched the 155-pound Watch City whiz repeat his 1949 feat of scoring all the points for the victorious Suburbans. Terrasi scored two touchdowns from scrimmage and another on a pass from Jimmy Lopez of Watertown who pressed Joe for the individual laurels today.

All the scoring in the game adjudged the best in the eight-year series was done in the first half. Carl Interbartolo of Revere, Beverly's Dick Carr and Lou Hettinger of Marblehead headed a North Shore attack that produced a pair of touchdowns. The North Shore squad outplayed its opposition in the second half, but three potent drives were stemmed deep in Suburban territory.

RACES 19 YARDS
Terrasi scored three touchdowns and one extra point in a first half in which both teams confined their scoring. To sweep all the points, the Waltham whiz first romped 19 yards on a right end run early in the first period, later in the same quarter crashed over from the one-half yard line and hooked a Jim Lopez 15-yard pass in the second period for the final score.

Revere's high scorer, Sonny Interbartolo, an all-scholastic himself, offered a one man offensive rebellion to Terrasi. Interbartolo set up the North Shore Stars first score and later added the second one himself.

RANDO RECOVERS FUMBLE
The first Suburban score developed from a "break". Waltham's Tony Rando recovered a North fumble on the second play of the game, and two plays later Terrasi tore around right and for the TD. Joe also kicked the point.

The Essex County contingent came right back. Interbartolo made a sparkling 40-yard dash to the Suburban 23. He and Hettinger then pushed it forward for a first down on the eight. The Suburbans held for three downs. But quarterback Carr then shot a pitchout to Hettinger who found Edgar Gilbert in the end zone with a pass. The conversion try was blocked by Rando.

Lopez who baffled the North Shore all day with his slick hand-offs, instigated the second Suburban scoring drive with a 25-yard kick-off runback to his own 40. Lopez, pass to Newton Bob Morrison put the ball in enemy ground. Don O'Brien and Paul Salisbury of Arlington advanced the ball to the 20.

Another Lopez to Morrison aerial was good for a first down on the three and Terrasi smashed over his second shot at the line. Joe missed the conversion.

North quickly retaliated on a 63-yard drive. Lou Hettinger raced the kickoff back from his own seven to the 40. After a three-yard loss here, Interbartolo skirted his right end and raced 40 yards to the Suburban 23. A run and pass gained to the 15 where Interbartolo reeled off another nine yards to the six. A nice pass by Hettinger on a fake end run connected to Ed. Gilbert for the equalizer.

20-YARD PASS CONNECTS
Lopez, a top schoolboy quarterback, started the Suburbans' next drive with a 20-yard pass to Newton's Bob Morrison on the North 41, and several plays later set up the score with another pass to Morrison that moved the Suburban team from the 24-yard line to the one. Then Terrasi bulled over on two plays.

The North team scored again on the following kickoff, marching from its own 33 early in the second period. After a Dick Carr to Don Galvin pass gained 16 yards, Interbartolo chipped in gains of seven, eight and 23 yards. He finally scored on a one-yard thrust.

What proved to be the winning tally was added by the Suburban stars on the following kickoff. Lopez, Waltham's Ed Beck and Terrasi all contributed gains for the 13-yard assault, which was finished with Lopez, perfect throw to Terrasi, who caught it on the goal line and fell over.

The summary:
Score by periods:
Suburban 13 6 0 0—19

Touchdowns—Terrasi, 3; Gilbert, Interbartolo. Point after touchdown—Terrasi, (placement).

Museum Of Science To Hold Christmas Party On Dec. 18

Members of the Boston Museum of Science and their children will be feted at a gala Christmas party Monday, December 18. Temporary Headquarters located at Science Park on the Charles River, between North Station and Lechmere, will be open from 3-6 p. m. for the affair.

Inside the doors of this modern museum is a single magic world of fold at the flick of a finger. Curiosity and activity where the mysteries of science and nature unfurl youngsters with an urge to touch are encouraged to push the buttons and turn the cranks which set many displays in motion.

While the antics of Herkemiah, a live porcupine, will probably be the center of interest, such exhibits as a complete jet engine and the Geiger counter are certain to hold the attention of grownups as well.

At this Member's Christmas party a rubber ball will actually be made before their eyes. There will also be a bushel of Mexican jumping beans on hand to perform and each young guest will be given a sample. Family pictures will be taken of guests with a Polaroid Land camera and finished souvenir prints distributed immediately.

Attracting widespread attention in the East, the Museum of Science, one of the first of its kind in the country, is looking forward to the opening of its new and completely modern building adjacent to its present quarters. The Museum's membership committee reports enthusiastic interest in the current drive for new members. Information on joining the Museum of Science may be procured from Mrs. Charles L. Moore, 24 Ledgewood Rd., and Mrs. Harrison F. Flynn 15 Lawton Rd., of Winchester.

Wins Scholarship

William Withington, 174 Parkway, Winchester, Mass., has been vision of Northwestern University, awarded a University scholarship in geography by the Graduate division. The presentation was made by Arthur R. Tebbutt, dean of Northwestern's Graduate school.

The University scholarship, covering tuition, comes from University appropriated funds, and is awarded to students of unusual scholastic ability.

Public Urged To Mail Now

The need for immediate public cooperation by depositing their Christmas gifts and cards far earlier than ever before is becoming increasingly evident in post offices around the country. During this season of the year the post office is operating on a day to day basis, according to postal officials. That is to that storms will throw all schedules to the winds. The thousands of men entering our armed forces is throwing an added burden on the mails. Even at the present time the postoffice is working at capacity, not to add the Christmas load.

Persons who continue to hold parcels for Christmas in fear that they may arrive before the Christmas season should cooperate this year by mailing them at once. The public are urged to purchase their stamps now and to use three-cent stamps on their cards to assure forwarding. Thousands of changes of address have been recorded by postal men in the past year. Only first-class mail with three-cent stamps affixed will be sent along to new addresses. It was said.

Many are resorting to air parcel post service to expedite their gifts this Christmas and a great many business firms are using this service by air for all distant mail and orders.

A duplicate address inside each parcel is recommended for added protection in case of torn wrapper, mutilation of outside address, etc.

Small parcels containing valuable articles, such as watches, jewelry and other fragile items are recommended to be registered, rather than insured. The cost is comparatively low and definitely safe delivery is assured. Registered articles may be protected for large values.

This year with Christmas Day falling on Monday, the number of delivery days for postal men is shortened. Only special delivery affixed to regular postage will assure delivery on Sunday, December 24th and Christmas Day, December 25th. Consider these facts and the possibilities of bad weather which will seriously delay the mail and you will mail packages now.

Warning

As the holiday season approaches, storekeepers, custodians of public buildings or any person who may wish to have seasonal decoration in such occupancies, must conform to the provisions of the Laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts regarding inflammable decorations.

Section 12 of Form X of the Regulations of the Department of Public Safety specifies that:

"No inflammable decorations shall be used in stores halls and places of assembly, a such term defined in General Laws (Ter. Ed.), Chapter 143, Section 1, as amended by the Acts of 1943, Chapter 546, Section 1; except to such an extent, such period of time and under such terms and conditions as the Chief of the Fire Department shall authorize in writing."

The classification of decorating or ornamental material depends on the facts in each case, whether they are utilitarian or ornamental. Decorative Material Forbidden. All materials made from cellulose base which are incapable of being flameproofed.

Christmas trees (large or small) Evergreens (wreaths) Corn stalks Cotton batting Dried moss Decorations in store windows may be permitted if flameproofed in a suitable manner, but only in windows that are separated from the interior of store by a partition of plaster board or some suitable fire resisting material or where sprinklers are installed in said windows.

Advance notice is issued at this time in order that any one planning to beautify stores, store windows or halls, may know beforehand what they may use with safety and to obviate the necessity of removing such decorations after they have been installed at considerable expense.

The authority to enforce this Law is delegated to the Chief of the Fire Department by the State

PRESS To Award Grid Trophy At K. Of C. Banquet Wed. Night

A beautiful 17 inch trophy, the first annual Arlington PRESS award for best back and best lineman of the year, will be presented Wednesday night at the seventh annual Knights of Columbus banquet to be held at the Robbins Memorial Town hall.

A committee of four men; Charles Downs, assistant head master of Arlington high school; Frank Mahoney, Sports editor of the Arlington PRESS; John Buckley, local merchant; and William Lowder, Faculty manager of the Arlington high school squad have selected the winners. The names of the best back and best lineman will be withheld until the night of the presentation.

The trophy is seventeen inches high, with a three inch broad circular base of bronze and a smaller column rising out of it topped with a gold plated statue of a football player.

The trophy is inscribed on the large base with:

ARLINGTON PRESS

and the names of the winner will be inscribed on the column under the year of the team.

Tickets for the banquet, which will feature as speakers, "Chuckin Charlie O'Rourke" and famous official Ray Kelley, are on sale at Buckley's Mens Store on Mystic st.

Seats will be at a premium so get your ticket early and help support, morally, the kids who battle for the honor of the Town on the gridiron.

Hoopsters To Be Only Fair Says Lowder

"We will have only a fair team this year," said George Lowder, coach of the Arlington high school basketball squad.

Coach Lowder has the same trouble that besets the hockey squad in that he has only two lettermen back. However, every team in the league has the same problem.

This will be the coaches third season with the Arlington team. He has a record of ten wins and five losses for 1948, and seven wins seven losses for 1949.

The coach said his hopes are not too high for this season but with the league evenly matched, as it is Waltham and Cambridge Latin are the threats.

Cambridge Latin has an all veteran squad, the only one on the circuit, while Waltham just has a good club.

Don Swanson the captain of the 1950 team and Bill Kenealy, are the only Lettermen.

A tentative first squad lineup was listed by coach Lowder as follows; Don Winter, C; Jack Bowler, G; Ed Kerr, F; Rickie Powers, F; Ken Tobiason, C; Ed Szymanski, G; Bob Beardsley, G; John Shirley, F; Don Swanson, G; and Bill Kenealy at Forward.

There is one bright spot in the picture and that is the second squad. They will see plenty of action this season. Their lineup is as follows; Bob Canty, Jack Cosgrove, Ray Desroisers, Ted Kenney and George Azzarian.

Toz Not To Quit As Arlington Grid Mentor

By

FRANK MAHONEY

Rumors to the effect that Coach Henry Toezylowski of the Arlington High football team has resigned from his coaching position but maintained his teaching job were refuted by Toz, Monday afternoon.

He told a PRESS reporter that the rumors were definitely unfounded and he had no idea where anyone had gotten such a notion.

The coach's retort was unexpected as he replied, "No comment" to the question of his resignation following the Melrose game. At that time he was asked if he was planning to leave Arlington high for better stamping grounds.

Rumor has had it that Toz resigned as coach and that Dave Gavin of Melrose had been asked to take over the Arlington squad for the 1951 season. It was also talked that Toz was in line for a coaching job at his alma mater, Boston College.

When questioned about the Boston College bid he replied, "If I have received a bid, and if I have accepted or rejected it I would leave it to the discretion of both the College and school authorities to make an announcement to that effect."

He declined to clarify this statement but it is supposed that Toz received no such offer in the light of his denial of reports that he is leaving Arlington high.

No Funds No Ice No Practice For Hockey Players

Hockey opens one week from Saturday but Coach Eddie Burns of Arlington High doesn't know how his team is going to be able to open the season.

Some 120 men have turned out for the squad which is good, but there has been no ice and there has been no money available to rent ice on which the 120 men can practise.

Thus it is, the coach is faced with the horrible problem of selecting an all new team without having seen half of his prospective skaters in action.

Medford, Stoneham, Wakefield & Melrose been in practise for the past month at the Lynn arena. The Arlington club has been on ice for 120 minutes at the Garden and this on the cuff.

This week a few dollars dribbled through the chains of red tape with this and a deal with Stoneham to split their ice at the Lynn rink, Coach Burns will be able to observe a few of his boys on skates.

The lack of natural ice has held up the Arlington squad. In past years there has been ice on some of the smaller ponds around Concord and the lads were able to practise. This year the unseasonable weather has seen to it that teams which depend on natural ice are left out in the "heat."

In his three years at Arlington

N.E. Swinging To Military Economy

Boston — The Federal Reserve Bank of Boston today put the spotlight on New England's economic barometer and found the needle fluctuating under the stress of world developments.

Through a series of articles in its Monthly Review, the bank summarized the effect of global military actions upon such elements of the region's economy as consumer buying, income, employment, production, housing and labor.

One of the broad conclusions of the studies is that New England is fast swinging to a joint military civilian economy. The region is in a period of transition between the production caused by last summer's war and the production of today's peace.

Consumer prices had risen about four per cent since the current upturn began last April, with food prices up seven per cent; clothing, two percent; rents, one percent; and fuel and light nearly four percent. Although savings deposits increased during the first part of the year, a large volume of withdrawals took place in July.

To show further the effect of world conditions on the home front economy, wholesale prices went down with the receipt of good news from Korea in late September and early October. New investment prices up again. Average primary market prices for the week ended November 7 reached a post-Korea peak which was only slightly below the all-time high of 1948.

Average prices in spot markets and organized exchanges climbed six percent between September 29 and November 10.

The immediate worry of most New England manufacturers is not prices but shortages of material. They are primarily short of steel, non-ferrous metals, rayon and nylon yarn, some chemicals, and wood pulp. Actual layoffs because of shortages are spotty, however, and production has not yet been seriously hampered.

With increased employment has come a tightening of the New England labor market. Only a year ago the problem of labor surpluses was critical. Eighteen New England areas were classified as suffering from unemployment in July 1949. By April 1950 only nine New England localities remained in that classification. By September there were none. Many areas that suffered from unemployment a few months ago are now worried about meeting the manpower needs of industry. Shortages in certain skilled occupations have appeared, but so far no general labor shortages have developed.

Employers who wish to expand their labor force may soon have to revive such wartime techniques as job simplification, employee-training programs and increased hiring of women. They may recall older employees and give more jobs to handicapped persons.

Improvement in business activity and anticipation of higher prices resulted in increased pressure for wage adjustments. National figures on manufacturing workers reflect the wage increases of the past summer. Average weekly earnings of production workers are more than double the 1939 average of $23.86 and are considerably above the wartime peak of $46.08 in 1944. An all-time high of $60.53 was reached in September 1950.

Named Sales Manager Of Dewey, Almy

Appointment of George W. Blackwood as general sales manager of the Dewey and Almy Chemical Company was announced by Hugh S. Ferguson, executive vice-president.

Prior to his appointment to the newly created post, Mr. Blackwood was general manager of the company's rubber specialties division which manufactures rubber duck and goose decoys, playballs, toys, dollskins and also meteorological balloons for use by government bureaus in the study of upper air phenomena in connection with weather and special military research problems. The division has just been awarded a government contract for the development of night flight balloons made of synthetic rubber.

Mr. Blackwood joined Dewey and Almy in 1937, as a sales engineer in the company's division, which manufactures sealing compounds for cans and other types of containers, and became sales manager of the division in 1945. In 1948 he was appointed assistant to the vice president in charge of sales, T. T. Miller, and became manager of the rubber specialties division in 1949.

A graduate of Harvard in 1937, Mr. Blackwood also attended Browne & Nichols Preparatory School, and is a member of the Harvard Club of New York, the Varsity Club and the Winchester Country Club. He is married and, with his wife and two children, lives in Winchester.

Korea Vets Get Medical Service Of World War 2

Members of the armed forces who are discharged for service-connected disabilities incurred in the Korean fighting are entitled to the same medical service granted to disabled veterans of World War II, according to Manager William J. Blake of the Boston Regional office of the Veterans Administration.

"There have been many questions concerning benefits to which veterans of service in Korea may be entitled," said Manager Blake. "Medical care for service-incurred disabilities, provided the veteran was discharged under conditions other than dishonorable, is one of the benefits. Disability compensation at war-time rates is another. And another benefit for these veterans is their preference in buying or renting a house that has been completed since June 30, 1947. This benefit will be in effect until June of next year."

Whether veterans of the fighting in Korea may be entitled to all the benefits are not at present available to Korean veterans, and that extension of such benefits would require Congressional action.

Further information may be obtained from James J. Keefe, Contact Representative in Charge of the Veterans Administration office located in the Post Office Building in Union Square, Somerville.

University Theatre

Clark Gable and Barbara Stanwyck co-star in "To Please A Lady" the new romantic drama set against a thrilling and spectacular background of auto-racing, which comes to the University Theatre this Sunday. The picture, marking Gable's 20th year at M-G-M casts him as a ruthless and death-defying auto-racer in both dilet car and regular-sized speedsters. Miss Stanwyck plays the art of a powerful newspaper columnist and radio commentator who falls in love with Gable but almost loses his career. The story is based in the clash of these two dominating personalities.

America's newest and favorite sport, the roller raceway, comes to the screen for the first time in "The Fireball", the associate film co-starring Mickey Rooney and Pat O'Brien.

On Wednesday Review "My We Live" featuring Brian Aheren, Billie Burke and Constance Bennett and "Rope" starring James Stewart.

Laurence Olivier's Academy Award

winning film, "Hamlet" will open on Thursday. The film, which won the Academy Award as the best picture of the year also won for Olivier the Award as the best actor of the year. Olivier once again performs a three fold role in "Hamlet" - star, producer and director. Joined with him in the distinguished cast are Jean Simmons as Ophelia, Basil Sydney as King Claudius, Eileen Herlie as the Queen, Felix Aymer as Polonius, Norman Wooland as Horatio and Terrence Morgan as Laertes.

Nonagriculture employment in New England grew steadily from 3,065,100 in January, to 3,295,900 in September. However, the number of workers who filed initial claims for unemployment compensation edged upward during October and the first week of Nov. this year as layoffs began to appear in the food-processing, apparel, construction and shoe and leather industries. Business expansion slackened in September but turned upward again in October.

Meanwhile, consumers in Mass. as elsewhere, have continued to pay more and more each month for the things they buy. In October...

To Present Fire
Prevention Talk

A unique fire prevention demonstration entitled, "Fire... In Miniature" will be staged for members of the Hardy P. T. A. at Hardy School on next Tuesday evening.
Produced by United Mutual Fire Insurance Company, "Fire... In Miniature" is designed to show the many ways that fires are caused and can be caused by human carelessness and thoughtlessness. Miniature models of homes, factories and school buildings as well as household articles are used in the show to present its important message. E. W. Williams, a former Lynn fire official, directs and presents "Fire... In Miniature", which has been seen by approximately 100,000 persons in New England and the mid-west and has been telecast over a Boston television station. Audiences have included school students civic and church groups and business organizations. To add to the entertainment value of "Fire... In Miniature" and at the same time to underline important points, Mr. Williams, an accomplished magician, incorporates feats of magic into the presentation.

He will demonstrate the danger of overloaded fuses, cooking dangers spontaneous combustion, and countless other ways that fires start.

Everyone who owns a house, or rents one, everyone who worries about the safety of their children will find solid safety education in this program.

Miss Eleanor Pippetto, one of Arlington's most talented singers will present Christmas vocal selections.

Mrs. James Aulenbach will preside. Mrs. Samuel R. Carlisle will present the speaker. Mrs. Sarah Valli will direct the Group of room mothers who will serve refreshments.

Teachers will be in their classrooms between 7:30 and 8:00 o'clock.

Police Warn Of Driving Dangers During Dec.

Daw - Dusk - Darkness - Death.

That, Chief Archie F. Bullock of the Arlington Police Department, stated to-day, is the all too familiar pattern of winter traffic.

"In mid-winter, especially in December it almost seems that there is, actually, no daylight worth mentioning," Chief Bullock said. "It's dark when we go to work in the morning. It's dark when we come home. An these, unfortunately are the peak hours of automobile traffic."

The combination of heavy traffic, darkness, and—to large extent weather conditions such as sleet, snow and rain that tend to obscure the driver's vision, were blamed by Chief Bullock as contributing factors in thousands of fatal accidents every year.
